

Tony Had One Too Many

Tony had one too many cocktails.

He did not wake up to deliver the mail.

He lost his job so he had no pay.

And this all happened before Thursday.

Now Tony had a pretty good brain.

He'd tell you a story if you let him explain.

He looked for a job without delay.

And he went to work on the new highway.

He worked all day laying concrete.

He had a boss with the name of Pete.

Tony went to work each day and did not complain.

In the heat and the sun and the wind and the rain.

But one day after work there was a jamboree.

And Tony had a little too much whiskey.

He did not wake up to pave the street.

Tony knew that he would hear it from his boss Pete.

Tony lost his job and he had no pay.

All this happened before Thursday.

