

In or On or At

In or on or at.

Three little words that we use for time.

In or on or at.

Three little words that do not rhyme.

We use in for long periods of time.

We say: in the 21st century, in the year 2021, in April.

We use on for days, dates and holidays.

We say: on Saturday, on April 16th and on Memorial Day.

We use at for the most specific times.

We say: at midnight, at twelve o'clock or at bedtime.

We say: School begins in September, on the first of the month, at eight o'clock.
