

The Ticket

I will take one ticket please.

I would like to buy one ticket to the baseball game.

Sure. Here you go. That will be fifteen dollars.

Fifty dollars! Did you say fifty dollars?

Fifteen dollars. One ticket costs fifteen dollars.

It costs fifteen dollars for one ticket to the ballgame.

I am very surprised.

I am more than surprised.

I am annoyed that it cost fifty dollars for one ticket.

Fifty dollars is too much money for one ticket to a baseball game.

I can not spend fifty dollars for one ticket to a ballgame.

Fifteen dollars, sir. One ticket costs fifteen dollars.

It costs fifteen dollars for one ticket to the game.

I can not believe my ears.

Fifty dollars for a ticket.

No, sir, fifteen dollars for a ticket. One -five, not five-zero.

Did you say fifteen dollars for a ticket?

Yes sir, fifteen dollars a ticket.

Then I will take two tickets for the game. Two tickets please.
